WELCOME

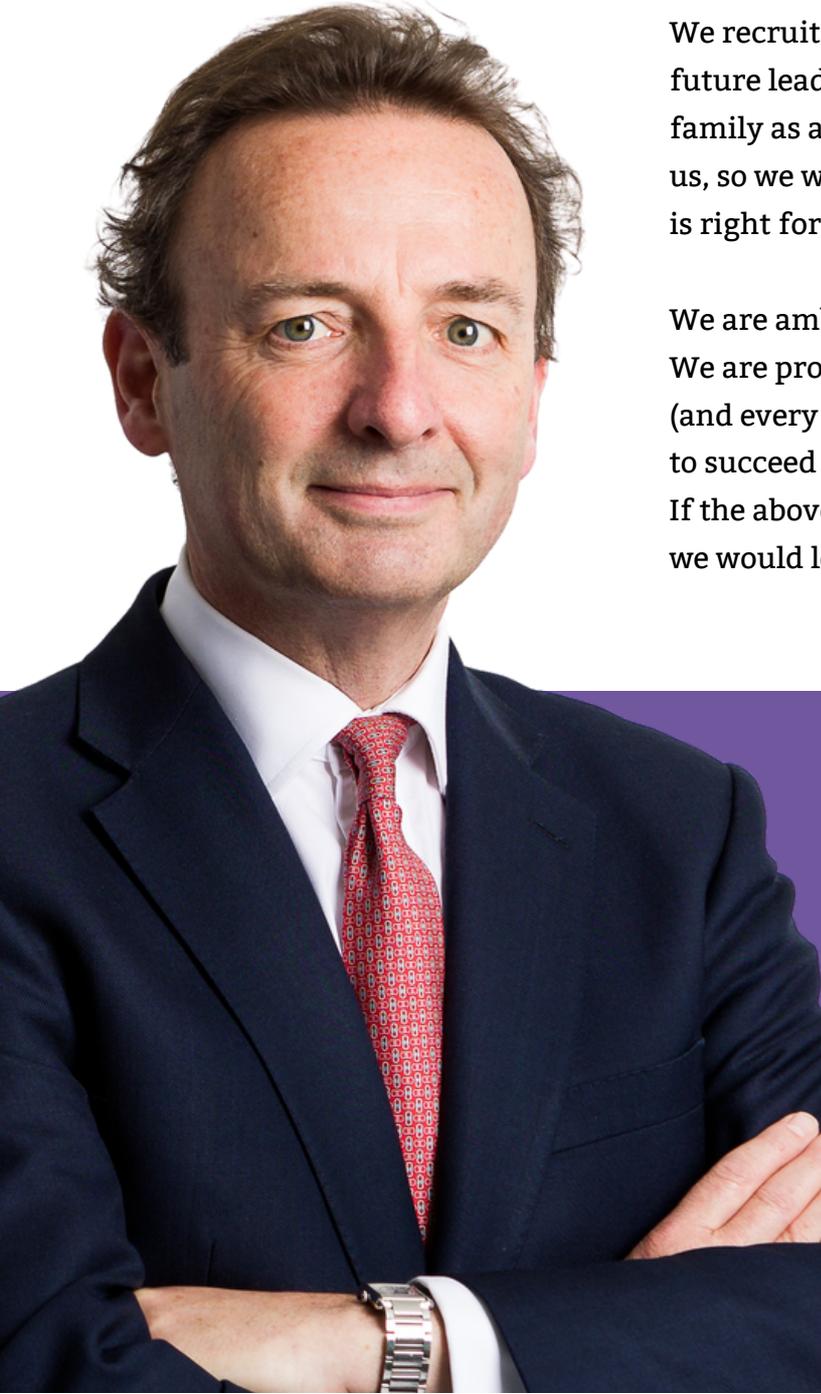

Hello, I am Jonathan Riley, a partner and the apprenticeship principal leading the apprenticeship initiative within Fladgate. Thank you for taking the time to look through this brochure – we really hope it explains why Fladgate is such a great place for you to undertake your apprenticeship training. As a Fladgate apprentice, you will be trained to qualify as a lawyer, earn a good salary and work with a great team.

When you are here, you will be encouraged to contribute ideas and suggestions – because it is your ideas that will shape the continued success of our business.

We will support you to be your best. For us, that means learning how to be a great lawyer and businessperson, as well as learning how to maximise your personal growth - including the skills to manage your mental and physical well-being.

We recruit apprentices hoping that they will become the future leaders of the firm. Becoming part of the Fladgate family as an apprentice is a big decision for you and for us, so we will work with you to make sure that Fladgate is right for you and that you are right for us.

We are ambitious, inclusive, hardworking and cheerful. We are proud of our diverse team; we have no barriers (and every encouragement) for all members of our firm to succeed in their field – to be the best they can be. If the above sounds like your kind of firm, we would love to meet you.

APPLICATION & SELECTION PROCESS

INCLUSION & DIVERSITY

Our focus

We know that to achieve our inclusion and diversity objectives we need to focus on a number of areas:

Developing a diverse leadership - We have a mix of different ethnicity and genders on our leadership groups. We are working hard to improve the gender balance of our partner team and in the last 18 months 4 out of 9 people joining the partnership were women.

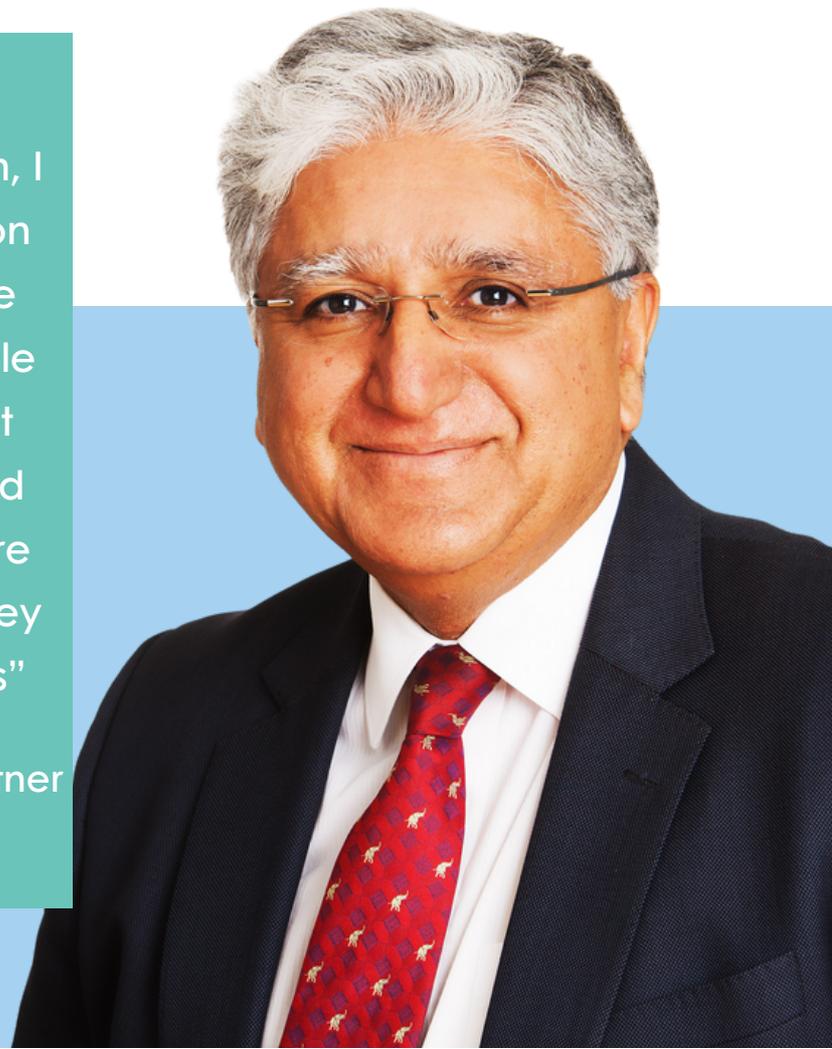

Attracting a diverse work force - This means adopting a properly personal approach when connecting with those interested in joining our team including: ensuring fairness in our processes; working with those, like recruiters, who help us in this; a commitment that you will always meet male and female talent in our recruitment interviews.

Engaging with everyone in our team to ensure they are heard, supported and understood. Encourage everyone to develop their own voice in shaping our culture, their future and our service to clients. That might be working flexibly or that might be a specific career programme - everyone needs different things at different times.

Helping all our people in all roles to achieve their full potential. We provide training, coaching, internal mentors and buddies, whatever works for each individual and their own personal development path.

“As the Senior Partner of the Firm, I am acutely aware that our vision and values are built around the word ‘personal’. We are a people business dependent on brilliant client relationships. Inclusion and diversity objectives are therefore not ‘soft’ business aspirations, they are fundamental to our success”

Sunil Sheth, Senior Partner

INCLUSION & DIVERSITY

For everyone including our clients we are striving to:

- Ensure that contact with us, including for example at events we organise, is always inclusive and appropriate for all, all preferences will be catered for.
- Endeavour to ensure our teams working on different client matters reflect the right balance of gender and ethnicity.

WE HEAR FROM LIZZIE INGLIS, ADMINISTRATOR IN OUR REAL ESTATE DEPARTMENT

9:00am: I always grab a coffee on the way into the office, head to my desk and set myself up for the day. There's usually a few Associates and Partners in at this point, everyone makes a big effort to say hello to each other and see how people are no matter how busy they may be. Today I have a quick catch up with a colleague who's recently had some exciting news before unpacking my things.

9:30am: I check in with my team when I log on every morning and see if anyone needs help with what they're working on. I then work through my emails to see if there are any on-going matters that need further action. Once my on-going matters are in hand I check our work list. This morning I had some urgent payments to process, then I carried out conflict checks for two new matters we've just opened and drafted client care letters to be sent out prior to us commencing work for the client.

11:00am: I sit in on a workshop about licences to alter held by a property Partner. The department usually put on two or three workshops a month and they are always on different topics. They can be focussed on new developments in the law, complicated areas of law people need further guidance on or just a topic that the presenter is passionate about.

12:00pm: Some post requests have come in from team members working from home, property is a very paper heavy team and we need to send original documents out to the other side. I had to locate a signed Lease from someone's desk today but sometimes we need to print legal documents and swap out pages, then date them and scan them back into the system. Next I draft a covering letter and send this out with the Lease.

1:30pm: I bring a packed lunch to work most days so I grab this from the kitchen and head across to Lincoln Inns Field to eat in the sun.

2:30pm: As property still involves so many paper documents we've got boxes of files that need sorting and sending to storage. When I'm in the office I like to dedicate a couple of hours to working through these deeds and find it quite therapeutic- it's so satisfying to start with a big pile and work through them until I've got an empty desk. I tell my team what I'm doing, put some music on and get to work.

4:30pm: I work through my emails again to see if there's been any more progression on matters I've been working on and ask around to see if anyone has any last minute post that needs to go out before the end of the day.

5:30pm: I say goodnight to my team via email and leave the office for the day. Sometimes I'll go for dinner in central London after work, being in Covent Garden is very convenient for going out and meeting friends. Sometimes I'll have drinks locally with other people from the office, everyone is so friendly, it's not just my own team I socialise with and it's great to meet other people from the office in the local pub. Otherwise I'll head home and relax.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A FLADGATE TRAINEE

ROBAIDH ALLIGHAN
TRAINEE SOLICITOR
DISPUTE RESOLUTION

8.15am: I normally arrive at the office at around 8.15. Having cycled into work, I shower and get ready for the day.

8:30am: I like to clear out my inbox and plan my to-do list for the day. The office tends to be quiet before 9.30, so this is also a good time to finish any outstanding tasks before more work comes in later!

9:00am: I am assisting a senior associate with the construction documents on a new development. We are drafting and negotiating the design team appointments on behalf of our developer client. The architect has sent through comments and amendments on its appointment, which require review. I mark up the proposed changes and draft a response setting out our client's position. The senior associate will review and amend the changes before we respond to the architect.

10:00am: My time in Construction is split between contentious and non-contentious work. We are currently acting for a developer client in a claim brought by a local authority for defective infrastructure works. I join a call with the partner, associate and our barrister about expanding the scope of the dispute to include additional defendants, who we say are ultimately liable. The litigation strategy is complex and I find it exciting to work as part of a wider team tackling the dispute.

10:45am: I tidy up my attendance note from the call and send it to the associate. It's time to pop out for a quick coffee – the area around Holborn does a good line in caffeinated treats!

11.15am: My action from the call with the barrister is to prepare the first draft of a letter to one of the additional defendants. I spend the time before lunch researching a point of law and start to draft the letter.

1:00pm: This week there is a training session put on by one of the local barrister's chambers. I have lunch on the client floor with the other trainees and some NQ solicitors while learning about mediation tactics. As well as regular training the firm hosts lunchtime yoga and weekly PT sessions in nearby Lincoln's Inn Fields.

2:00pm: I spend some time after lunch finishing off the letter and send it to the partner for review.

4:00pm: One of our developer clients is raising debt finance for a new project and I join a call with the funder's lawyers. The bank requires a variety of documents to be completed before it will release funds and we are responsible for preparing the various construction contracts.

4:30pm: My task from the call is to draft a suite of collateral warranties for the benefit of the bank. It will take me a few hours and I make a start ahead of tomorrow's deadline.

5:30pm: The partner and I sit down to review my draft of the letter and discuss the changes she has made. I proofread the letter and issue it to the additional defendant.

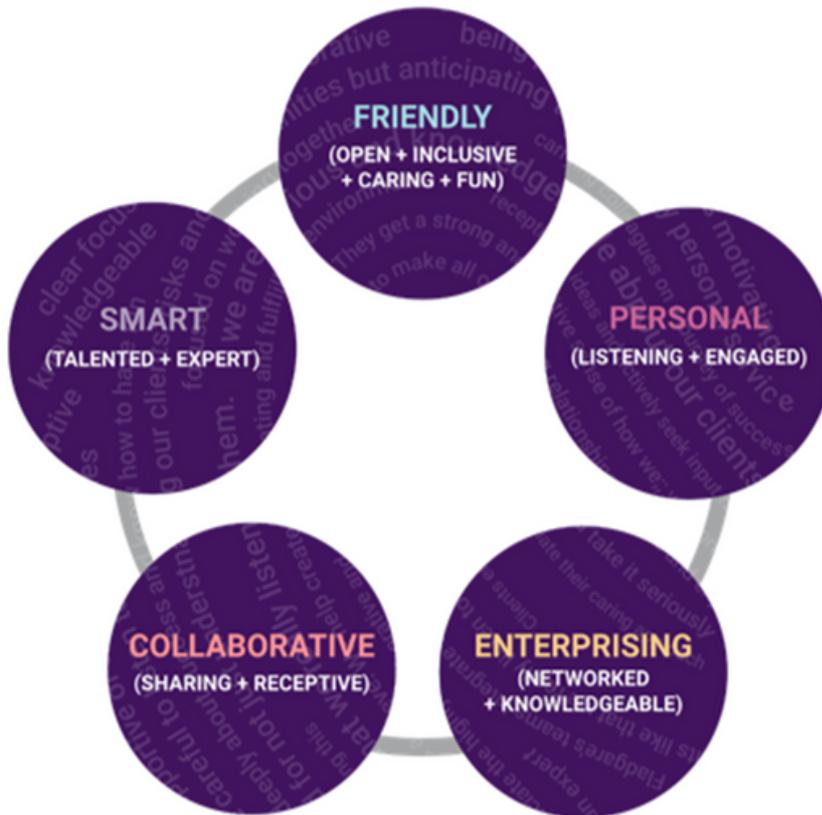

6:30pm: I finish up and head out to meet some friends for a drink in nearby Soho.
